1992-93 Annual Report

of Pennsylvania

The Challenge of the Future

The past year has seen a crisis of confidence in higher education. Recent articles in Business Week and a host of other publications tell the story in graphic terms: massive deficits, poor teaching, arcane research, questionable ethics, racial strife, deteriorating facilities, staff cutbacks, slashes in academic programs, low morale, the flight of the middle class to the public sector and empty beds in the private sector. Add to this litany a weak economy and a shrinking pool of secondary school graduates, and it's easy to see why even some of the country's oldest and most venerable institutions find themselves struggling. Against this background, the success that Lebanon Valley College has experienced over the past year—indeed, over the past several years—is truly remarkable. The college is not only successfully weathering the challenges of the early '90s, it is thriving.

A year of records

The 1992-93 year ended with a $500,000 operating surplus, the largest anyone can remember. A good portion of these monies will be used to establish a much needed reserve for physical plant and equipment.

The year achieved new records in fund-raising. Public and private gifts totaled $3,182,598—up 29 percent. The number of donors in all categories increased by 25 percent, and the percentage of alumni contributing rose from 26 to 32 percent. The year also brought the successful completion of the Kline Foundation Challenge, lifting annual giving above the $1 million mark. Endowment also rose to a new high of $16.4 million, boosted by a number of generous gifts and bequests and helped along by a favorable investment climate. Perhaps the most gratifying news, however, came as a result of the year's admissions efforts. The fall 1993 entering class of 368 students is the largest in the history of the college, and academically one of the best. One-third of the freshmen ranked in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating class and three-fourths of them ranked in the top third.

A campus renewed

The pace of campus improvements continued with the completion of the Derickson Hall condominiums and their acquisition for student housing for seniors. North College was substantially renovated and re-opened as a small residence hall for students engaged in community service projects. A new classroom was constructed on the lower level of Miller Chapel. The Administration/Humanities building was enhanced by the renovation and expansion of the college's media center.

Several landscaping projects were also completed. New walkways, curbing and street lighting were provided along College Avenue, White Oak and Sheridan. The handsome new Benjamin Cantor Entrance on Sheridan Avenue was constructed and dedicated in April.

With one-third of the campus already renovated and landscaped, several new projects are scheduled to begin this fall. The former St. Paul's Lutheran Church on White Oak and Church streets will be renovated to provide a gallery and small recital hall (see page 4). Extensive work will be undertaken in the Mund College Center to renovate the theatre on the main floor and create a new informal eating facility on the lower level. Elevators will be installed in Miller Chapel and the Administration/Humanities Center to assure access by the handicapped. Improvements are also planned for Arnold Field, including a new press box, tennis courts and extensive grading to improve drainage and provide additional practice areas.

Library of the future

As the college looks forward to its future, construction of a new library becomes ever more important. More than a building, much more than a repository of books, Lebanon Valley College's library is being designed to incorporate the new and sophisticated information systems that will extend its reach throughout the campus and beyond. Constructing the new facility on the site of the present library and providing for all related technologies are expected to cost $6.2 million.

The elements of the network that will become the heart and circulatory system of the new library include fiber optic cable and conduit, a profusion of personal computers, new central processors and specialized software. The library's data and information capabilities and services will extend far beyond its walls. Via the electronic

Linking Up to a World of Knowledge

Lebanon Valley's new library will become an important focal point for the campus. A reconstruction and expansion of the existing library built in 1956, the building when completed will provide 43,000 square feet—sufficient room to accommodate program needs and to house its primary collection of 117,000 books and other materials.

Although construction will not begin on the building itself until 1994-95, work on the high-technology component of the library began some time ago. In 1989, Digital Equipment Corporation was asked to draw up a plan for a campus-wide fiber optic network. The first link of the network connecting the computer center in Lynch Hall to the communications center in the basement of the Humanities Building was established in early 1990.

A second link was completed this summer, bringing Garber Science Center onto the network. By 1996-97, all academic buildings and residence halls will be connected, the campus-wide information system will be a reality and the new library will be opened.

At the center of this system, the new library will serve as an information hub as well as a traditional repository for books and other materials.

In 1991, the college connected to PREPnet, a regional network for Pennsylvania. This in turn provided access to the NSFNet, the national network, which is connected to other networks and systems all over the world. The whole collection of networks, known as the Internet, offers students and faculty access to hundreds of libraries, data bases and other networks in the state, country and world. Our own library's CD-ROM catalog is scheduled to be upgraded to a fully automated on-line system within two years.

Because the amount of information available can be overwhelming, the college has already established a "dual support" system of librarians and computer services personnel to assist users and make their information searches easier. A training program for the Internet developed by Donna Miller, readers service librarian, and Mike Zeigler, director of user services, was so successful that they have been invited to train librarians, faculty and administrators at other colleges.

An Inspiring Setting for Music and Art

Suzanne Arnold, chair of the College Art Committee, and Dan Massad, acting art department chair, look at architectural drawings.

The transformation of the former St. Paul Lutheran Church into an art gallery and small recital hall will shift into high gear in the coming fiscal year. Plans and architectural drawings were completed in 1992-93, and construction will begin in November.

The recital hall will accommodate 100 to 150 concert-goers, and the gallery will be suited to displaying a wide range of art.

Helping the project become a reality are an 11-member College Art Committee and the "Friends of the Gallery" group, which now has over 140 members. This year the Friends gave over $16,000 in support of gallery exhibits and activities.

network, students, faculty and community members will have access—from the library, their offices and their dorm rooms—to a tremendous amount of information from around the globe. (See page 3.)

Residential life changes

A comprehensive study of residential life completed during the year recommended several new initiatives, including more varied living arrangements. Students may now choose to live with others in a substance-free environment, or with students engaged in community service. Seniors may apply to live in the newly acquired Derickson Hall condominiums. Freshmen are now assigned to communities of 20, led by an upperclass mentor and housed in contiguous rooms.

The college has instituted new policies aimed at reducing alcohol abuse, a growing concern in our society and on our nation's campuses. In accordance with state laws, minors may not consume or possess alcohol. Students who have attained the age of 21 may consume alcohol in the privacy of their rooms, provided that no minors are present and that they maintain appropriate behavior. Steps being taken to reduce drinking on the campus include new and stiffer sanctions, increased availability of psychological counseling, additional alcohol awareness programs, more adult counselors living in the residence halls and increased training for resident assistants. We intend, under this new plan, to hold students firmly accountable for their actions while being supportive and respectful of their rights under existing laws.

Faculty development

It is well-known that the greatest strength of Lebanon Valley lies in our faculty and their commitment to teaching. Our faculty continue to hone their considerable skills in that regard. Some two-thirds are participating in a series of workshops exploring teaching methods that reach beyond the traditional lecture format to stress more actively involving students in the learning process. The program, funded by a grant from the State System of Higher Education and the Pew Foundation, will continue in the 1993-94 academic year.

The college's condominiums have become bridge housing for 52 seniors.

Athletic success

Our athletic teams are matching the college's progress in other areas. The baseball team recorded its first 20-win season, capturing the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) Southwest Division title. Basketball won its first NCAA playoff game in 40 years and its first MAC playoff game in 20 seasons. Football finished with its first seven-win season since 1960. Field hockey won its second consecutive MAC championship—its third in the past five years.

Field hockey team wins again.

A more global campus

The college's move to internationalize its student body and curriculum continued apace in 1992-93. In March, the college announced a new general education program that requires all students to take at least one foreign studies course. The new program also strengthens the language requirements. Faculty and student exchange arrangements were established in China with Nanjing University and in the United Kingdom with Anglia University and Regents College. A consulting relationship was created with Guangzhou Foreign Languages Institute in China. Thanks to overseas recruiting efforts, the college now has almost two dozen students from abroad.

A college with momentum

The visiting team of the Regional Association of Middle States, the group that accredits all institutions of higher education, gave the college high marks during its October 1992 review visit to the campus. In both oral and written statements, the Middle States team called Lebanon Valley "an exciting and vibrant institution... well on its way toward its goal of being a first-rate college in its region." Lebanon Valley is, said Middle States, "a college with momentum." The visit capped an intensive, yearlong internal review process during which 100 faculty members, administrators, students, alumni and trustees worked together to compile a 106-page report.

Anticipating the future

It is good to remember, however, that momentum is a fragile quality and can turn rapidly. To assure its continuance, the college must look to future achievements, not just rest on past accomplishments. The external environment within which colleges and universities operate is constantly changing. Although we can and should take pleasure in Lebanon Valley's success, there are obstacles to overcome, work to be done, goals to achieve:

- a library/learning center to be funded and built
- a campus information network to be completed
- continued progress to be made in admissions to create a student body of not just 1,000 students, but 1,000 students of exceptional ability and diversity
- residential programs to enhance and support the academic efforts of students and that foster true community
- a governance structure to involve appropriately all parties in the building of the college's future

• more effective ways to articulate and make real our mission and our belief that the college's role is not only to educate but to educate for a life of service to others

• more intensive efforts to prepare students for a world that is increasingly diverse, environmentally fragile and international in its dimensions.

We have a long way to go, but we can accomplish much in the next few years if we continue to anticipate the future, build on strengths, take appropriate risks, work always with a sense of urgency and never be satisfied fully until the vision of the college is achieved. Although the climate for higher education is fraught with difficulties, with your continued support and help, we believe there is good reason to be optimistic about Lebanon Valley's future.

August 1992

27 Some 291 freshmen—the largest entering class in 20 years—are welcomed at the college's 127th Opening Convocation. More than 1,200 full- and part-time students are enrolled as undergraduates and in the M.B.A. program.

29 Field hockey coach Kathy Tierney is featured in U.S.A. Today's "Voices from Across America" column.

September

10 A new "China connection" is announced—a faculty exchange program with Nanjing University and a consulting arrangement with the Guangzhou Foreign Languages Institute.

20 A special "Salute to Autumn" piano recital honors Drs. Clark and Edna Carmean ('59), who have been associated with the college since 1933.

30 Award-winning author Sharon Sheehee Stark reads from her works.

26 The Third Annual Achievement Golf Tournament, with honorary chair Sam Bowie (Lebanon native and star center for the Los Angeles Lakers) raises over $33,000 for disadvantaged college-bound students from the Lebanon School District.

October

2 More than 300 alumni return to the Valley for Homecoming celebrations.

3 The field hockey team wins its second consecutive MAC championship when it earns three 1-0 wins in a week to capture the crown. It's the team's third MAC championship in five years.

The Year in Review

The following are a few of the many significant events in the life of the college during the 1992-93 academic year.

10 Dr. Jerome A. Ottley, director of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, is the featured speaker at the college's 40th Annual Choral Lectureship.

18-21 A team from the Regional Association of Middle States visits the college to tour the campus and conduct interviews. Its final report calls Lebanon Valley "an exciting and vibrant institution" and "a college with momentum."

21-22 The humanities departments sponsor "Coming to America," a two-evening symposium on immigration.

23 Drs. Clark and Edna Carmean ('59) are honored for their 60 years of service to the college at the Thomas Rhys Vickroy Society dinner.

27 Captain Paul Watson, founder of the Greenpeace Foundation, speaks on "Rescuing the Seas."

November

1 Actor Max McLean presents his one-man narrative of "Mark's Gospel: The Story of Jesus."

5 Dr. David Jablonsky, professor of National Security at the U.S. Army War College in Carlisle, discusses "The Future of American Foreign Policy."

6-7 The Rebecca Kelly Dance Company performs under the auspices of the Authors and Artists Series.

19 The Metropolitan Museum of Art purchases Adjunct Art Professor Dan Massad's pastel, "Very Old Are the Woods."

20 The college hosts a dinner in Tokyo and establishes its first overseas alumni club.

December

6 Christmas at the Valley, an annual celebration of seasonal music and readings, rings in the holiday season. Highlight of the evening is the premiere of an original choral work, "Sleep Baby Sleep," composed by Music Professor Scott Eggert.

7 Authors and Artists present The Bobs, an a cappella quartet.

January 1993

10 Members of the college's legendary 1952-53 basketball team return for their 40th reunion, and the event generates nationwide news coverage, including articles in The New York Times and U.S.A. Today, an AP wire story that ran across the country and a report on the ABC evening news.

25 Martin Luther King Day is celebrated in a lecture by Bishop Felton May, resident bishop of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the United Methodist Church and a college trustee. The Gospel Choir of the Camp Curtin Mitchell Memorial United Methodist Church of Harrisburg performs.

February

2 The college signs an affiliation agreement with Regents College, a four-year liberal arts college located in London, which will allow students and faculty to spend one semester or a year on that campus.

4 Actress Kathryn Woods portrays Sojourner Truth in a one-woman show.

15 The campus's 19 overseas students set up an International Students Organization.

23 Adam Yarmolinsky, University of Maryland Baltimore County provost who served in the Kennedy, Johnson and Carter administrations, is keynote speaker at the 14th Annual Founders Day Convocation. Harrisburg philanthropist Hannah S. Cantor receives the Founder's Day award.

March

4 The men's basketball team wins its first MAC playoff game in 20 seasons, and its first NCAA playoff game in 40 seasons. Both wins are against Johns Hopkins.

13 Navejo-Ute flutist R. Carlos Nakai entrances an overflow audience with his original compositions based on traditional Native American melodies.

22 Annual Spring Business Blitz begins, with 45 faculty and administrators calling on some 125 local businesses.

27 In the 13th Annual Quiz Bowl Competition, some 550 of the best and the brightest students from 72 high schools in the region match wits.

April

16-18 Some 5,000 visitors pass through the NAMES Project AIDS Memorial Quilt Exhibit. On display are 500 panels from the national AIDS Quilt, as well as 19 panels made by Lebanon County families who have lost relatives to the virus.

18-14 Author Lorrie Moore is in residence under auspices of the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Writing Fellows program.

29 The college dedicates its handsome new Benjamin Cantor Entrance on Sheridan Avenue. The gate is the gift of Hannah S. Cantor, honoring her late husband, a Harrisburg businessman.

30 A combined Alumni Weekend and Spring Arts Festival celebration brings 600 alumni back to campus.

May

1 The baseball team wins 20 games in a season for the first time in the history of the college. On May 7, they go on to win an ECAC Southern Championship and compete in the MAC playoffs—again a first.

15 John A. Crowl, a founder of The Chronicle of Higher Education, speaks at the college's 124th annual commencement ceremony, in which 169 people graduate.

magazine. For the third year in a row, Arnold's water fitness program is named "Top Water Fitness Program in the Country" by the National Water Fitness Association in Florida.

27 The basketball team begins its tour of Europe, taking on teams in Holland and Germany. The team returns triumphantly on June 3, having won all six games.

June

1 The college announces it is expanding its M.B.A. program by offering on-site courses for employees of individual companies and institutions. Lancaster General Hospital is the first site.

17-19 Alumni and friends of the college gather for the first Alumni Hostel learning program. The weekend includes presentations and discussions by faculty, staff and alumni.

24 The Youth Scholars Institute is renamed The Daniel W. Fox Youth Scholars Institute in honor of the late Dan Fox ('48). He became internationally known as the "father of Lexan," the polycarbonate that launched the engineering plastics industry.

28 As enrollments skyrocket, the college decides to buy the Derickson Hall Condominiums on Church and North White Oak streets to house the increasing numbers of students.

Special Thanks to All

The past year was indeed a year to remember as Lebanon Valley's alumni, college relations and development programs played a significant role in the continued advancement of the college. Special thanks to all the volunteers and staff who, together, make it all happen. Some highlights:

- The five-year Kline Foundation Challenge was successfully completed, boosting annual gifts to more than $1 million from public and private sources.
- A restructured Alumni Association increased volunteer participation in support of admissions, career placement, fund-raising, student life and other programs on- and off-campus.
- The college's story reached an ever-widening audience through regional and national public relations efforts and award-winning ads and publications produced by the College Relations Office.
- The college's comprehensive campaign, TOWARD 2001: Shaping the Future, approached the half-way mark of its $21 million goal.

In fund-raising, 1992-93 was one of the best years ever, setting several records. Private and public gifts totaled $3,182,598, up 29 percent over last year. The number of donors, an important measure of the breadth of support the college enjoys, increased to a record 4,450, a 25 percent increase. More than one-third of the college's alumni contributed.

Annual giving was an especially bright spot in the final year of the Kline Foundation Challenge. Beginning in 1988-89, the Foundation offered $80,000 per year if the college could increase unrestricted and scholarship gifts from private sources by a similar amount. Spurred on by the Challenge, the annual giving level rose from $537,000 to $940,000, an average annual increase of better than 15 percent.

The college is grateful to the many alumni, trustees, faculty and staff, friends in business and the community, and parents of students past and present whose gifts helped assure the success of the Kline Challenge. My special thanks goes to our annual giving volunteer leaders: Kristen R. Angstadt '74, Alumni; Gary and Helen Crissman, parents of Catherine '94, Parents; Jim Hanford, Friends; Jeanne Hey, Faculty/Staff; and Leonard Schott, Business.

For the past 18 months, members of a small steering committee led by Trustee and General Campaign Chair Tom Reinhart '58 has been quietly working to raise advance gifts in anticipation of the public launching of TOWARD 2001: Shaping the Future, a $21-million campaign designed to prepare Lebanon Valley College for the next century. I am pleased to report that more than $10 million in gifts and pledges has already been received, $3.1 million of which came from trustees of the college. You'll be hearing more about this remarkable effort in the coming months as the campaign moves into its more public phase. The committee plans to invite every graduate and friend of the college to participate prior to the campaign's conclusion in 1996.

Your confidence and support helped make this a truly memorable year. On behalf of our Board of Trustees, my thanks and best wishes.

Darwin G. Glick '58
Trustee and Advancement Chair

The Thomas Rhys Vickroy Society 1992-93 Honor Roll

Alumni and other friends who are members of the Vickroy Society demonstrate outstanding leadership in support of Lebanon Valley College.

Through the dedication of Vickroy Society members, the strength of Lebanon Valley College continues to grow. It is with heartfelt thanks that we list their names below.

Membership in the Vickroy Society is open to alumni, parents of students and other friends of the college on an annual basis, renewable each year. The Society recognizes gifts of $1,000 and above given to the college for any purpose during each academic year.

Active memberships are available in the following categories:

Trustee Associate: A gift of $10,000 and above
Five Founders Circle: A gift of $5,000 to $10,000
President's Circle: A gift of $2,500 to $5,000
Society Associate: A gift of $1,000 to $2,500

Active membership may be fulfilled with gifts of cash, securities, real estate or other property.

Lifetime Vickroy Associates are members whose cumulative contributions to Lebanon Valley College total $100,000 and above. Annual Active and Lifetime Vickroy Society memberships may be held concurrently.

Note: This Honor Roll recognizes Vickroy Society members whose gifts were made during the academic year July 1, 1992 through June 30, 1993, and includes both annual and capital gifts, as well as contributions to endowment.

Top Teacher

Winner of the 1993

Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Distinguished Teaching Award, Tom Strohman '75, adjunct instructor of music, is well-known on campus for his work as director of the college's lively jazz band. He also performs regularly with the Central Pennsylvania jazz group, Third Stream, where he plays saxophone, keyboard and flute. Over his professional career, Strohman has accompanied many professional musicians, including Natalie Cole, Della Reese, Eddie Fisher, Sonny and Cher and Patti Page.

Success Story

Continuing ed student Denise Gingrich '93 was named the 1993 Adult Student in Higher Education by the Pennsylvania Association for Adult Continuing Education. A single mother of two, she began her studies on a part-time basis, then advanced to full-time status while holding down a full-time job in a Reading candy factory. Gingrich graduated this spring with a 3.72 GPA and a bachelor's degree in music education, and is now teaching music to middle school students in the Baltimore County Schools.

Research Recognized
 Dr. Steven Williams, professor of biology, has spent more than 25 years researching and publishing on carnivorous plants, focusing on the comparative physiology of sundews and Venus fly traps. This year, he and two co-authors published a widely read study, "Carnivorous Plant Phylogeny and Structural Evolution," in Science, a journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The article received national media attention, including articles in The Washington Post and The New York Times.

Tops in His Field

Dr. Si Pham '79, a cardiothoracic surgeon at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, was part of the team that in June performed Pennsylvania Governor Robert Casey's heart/ liver transplant. Pham came to Lebanon Valley in 1975, along with 11 other Vietnamese refugees who had been flown out of Saigon to the refugee camp at nearby Fort Indiantown Gap. After graduating with a degree in biology, he went on to earn his M.D. degree from the University of Pittsburgh in 1983 and completed his general surgery residency in 1989.

The English Connection

Dr. Perry Troutman, chair of religious studies, headed an effort that raised some $15,000 to commission a stained-glass window for the 900-year-old cathedral in Durham, England.

Troutman's group, American Friends of Durham Cathedral, has members from across the country.

Troutman, his wife, Vivian, and a number of the Friends went to Durham for the dedication of the new window—an event that generated news coverage by both the American and British press.

Athletic Honors

Mike Rhoades, a sophomore point guard from Mahanoy City, was named to the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) Division III All-Middle Atlantic District First Team. Rhoades (pictured with Coach Pat Flannery), who also was the MAC Southwest League and team Most Valuable Player, led the Flying Dutchmen in six categories. He also helped the Dutchmen to their first MAC playoff win in 20 years, and their first NCAA playoff win in 40 years.

Summer Grant

Dr. Thomas Liu, assistant professor of mathematical sciences, was awarded a grant to spend 11 weeks this summer doing research at Argonne National Laboratory in Illinois. He was studying the modeling of electro-reactions, and he and two Argonne staffers are about to publish a paper on their findings. The annual program at Argonne provides research opportunities for faculty across the country.

"Art deals with things forever incapable of definition that belong to love, beauty, joy and worship; the shapes, powers and glory of which are forever building, unbuilding, rebuilding in each man's soul, and in the soul of the whole world."

Lebanon Valley Education Partnership

The Lebanon Valley Education Partnership is a program being carried out with the Lebanon School District that encourages young people to consider attending college. The three-part program familiarizes students with the college environment, identifies those qualified to pursue a college education and provides scholarship funds if they should choose Lebanon Valley. Each September for the past three years, friends of the college and representatives from local industries have participated in a golf outing at the Lebanon Country Club. The tournament has raised over $120,000 for scholarship assistance. The honorary chair each year has been Lebanon native Sam Bowie, center for the Los Angeles Lakers.

Planned Giving

The Honors Society

The Honors Society of Lebanon Valley College was established on March 15, 1987, to recognize alumni and friends who have planned for the future by naming the college in their will as a beneficiary for $10,000 or more, or by purchasing a charitable gift annuity, establishing a charitable remainder trust or giving real estate or insurance policies to the college. This group has pledged over $5 million for future buildings, scholarships and endowment to assure the well-being of Lebanon Valley College.
